From Friday Advertiser
"Tis Patrick's Day in the morning" this morning. All the federal court trial jurors have been excused until further notice, but it is not likely that their services will be further required as the April term will begin on April 30, when new grand and trial jurors will be on duty.

There are rumors that the appointment of Horace W. Vaughan as first judge of the local United States district court will be kept in the clerkship and that the new clerk also will be a local man.

There will be no session of the territorial grand jury today. Although there are many criminal cases ready for investigation, there is no money in the expense fund of the local circuit court out of which to pay jurors mileage and fees.

The seventh divorce case for March was filed in the circuit court yesterday—Asano Taniguchi against Chotazo Taniguchi, cruelty being charged—making a total of forty-nine actions for divorce instituted in Honolulu since the first of the year.

The singing boys who recently returned from New York where they had been appearing with "Baby Deelys in 'Stop! Look! Listen!'" gave a most enjoyable concert at the Moana Hotel last evening. It was their first appearance since their return last Monday.

An amended complaint was filed in the circuit court yesterday in the case of Dr. Manuel Goldwater against the members of the territorial board of dental examiners. The alternative writ of mandamus, under which the members of the board are required to show cause why they should not issue a license to the petitioner to practice dentistry in the Territory will be heard by Judge Ashford at nine o'clock next Wednesday morning.

Mr. Stone was told, on his last visit, that Honolulu would be found going strong under the wire when the final test came for keeping the Hill liner on the run, and we believe that this prediction will come true.

Honolulu simply cannot afford to let this service stop, for more reasons than one, and every other steamship company interested in the Hawaiian trade should get in and help in holding the Great Northern. That liner, even with the help of its sister the Northern Pacific, will not be able to handle the business the Hill lines will develop for Hawaii and instead of hurting the Matson and Oceanic lines, the Great Northern will become their greatest feeders.

We do not care to be pessimistic, but the glad hand General Pershing is getting from the Caranzistas on the border recalls the welcome Admiral Dewey received once from the Filipinos.

To the neutral observer it does not seem exactly fair to blame von Turpitz either for the failure of the German submarine campaign or for the inactivity of the high sea fleet. A part of the blame ought to be put on Admiral Jellicoe.

In England, because of the scarcity in house servants due to the enlistment of the footmen and butlers and others and the demand for young women in the munition factories, the Boy Scouts have jumped into the breach and become domestic servants. The employment of these boys has become popular. The Boy Scout waits at table, cleans the silver, and answers the door. He looks very smart in his uniform, says the report, and his scout training makes him an efficient and satisfactory substitute for the parlor maid. It is not so much what the scout does as the cheerfulness with which he does it that continues to bring honor to his uniform. In this instance, polishing the silverware is fulfilling a patriotic duty and boot polishing is giving the government a hand. Boy Scouts of Honolulu might think over this and preach a little sermon, each to himself.

Forty-four miles an hour is the official estimate of the velocity of the gale that blew all Tuesday evening and night and well into yesterday afternoon. The wind, beginning early Tuesday afternoon increased in weight and power until, just before ten o'clock at night, when the "government" wind gauge recorded forty-four miles, again at midnight the wind rose to practically the same rate.

A great deal of minor damage was done by the blow. Electric lights were smashed, wires were blown down, limbs of large trees were snapped off, and the leaves of banana trees whipped to shreds. At nine o'clock yesterday morning the velocity was recorded at thirty-six miles an hour.

The rain fall, which accompanied the rain Tuesday night, registered 3 1/2 of an inch. This brought the total for March to date to 6.43 inches, or fifteen times as much rain as fell during the entire month of March last year.

Garden Island News

(Mail Special to The Advertiser)
LIHUE, March 14.—Many interesting cases have been tried during the past week in the Kauai circuit court, now in session, and local folk have been concerned in most of them. The acquittal of Asperu Huiatua, a young Hawaiian, has caused some excitement as the case was a spectacular one. Sheriff W. O. Crowell of Waimea recently followed the Hawaiian to Seattle and brought him back to face the charge of criminally assaulting a Chinese school girl. He had left Kauai the morning after the alleged assault had occurred in the Hanalei valley and was only recently brought back. Sufficient evidence was not produced against him, although matters looked rather serious, and he was acquitted by the jury.

The Harris Reichelt embezzlement case will be called on the sixteenth and will be the important case of the term. About $50,000 is the sum which the late plantation claims was obtained by Reichelt, its former timekeeper, during the past six years. Part of that sum has been made good, but the larger part is still unaccounted for. The accused man has been in custody since his arrest in December, no one being willing to go bail for him, which was set at $20,000. R. C. Walker, the special auditor of the Audit Company of Hawaii, went over the accounts and will render a report at the trial. Because of the confidence placed in him, and the important position he has occupied in Lihue for a number of years, no case ever tried here has attracted more interest. C. C. Peters of Honolulu, and C. S. Dole of Lihue will represent Reichelt and J. W. Cathcart, the plantation.

Several casualties have been reported on the Garden Isle recently. Tong Lee, a Chinese laborer, fell between the cars on a plantation train and was killed instantly. He was evidently sitting on the outer edge of the car from which he fell. The accident occurred not far below Manager Weber's house.

Paul Kalehiki, a Hawaiian living in Honolulu, died from pneumonia on board the King when he was returning from Honolulu. He had been quite ill for some time and succumbed after several coughing spells.

The body of a Porto Rican laborer, Mateo, was found in the Keala stream after the man had apparently drowned several days before. He had evidently fallen into the water when attempting to cross further up the stream.

GENERAL AND PERSONAL

Inhospitable storms barred the success of the first military hop given by the Kauai Regiment of the National Guard, when the Makaweli Company entertained. Only a comparatively few of the folk from the other parts of the island ventured out into the raging kona which continued until after midnight. The Makaweli Hall was attractively decorated, but the outdoor platform, that had been planned to accommodate the dancers, was not erected. The torrential rains also prevented the officers from appearing in the full glory of their new uniforms, many of which were to have been inspected by Captain Truscott, had the affair in charge and was responsible for the very delightful evening. Tickets had been sold to everyone, dancing or non-dancing, interested in the newly-formed regiment, not only on Kauai, but in Honolulu, and on the other islands as well. The affair netted a most satisfactory sum for the building of the Makaweli armory, and other activities of the company. Among those who braved the elements were: Maj. and Mrs. B. D. Baldwin, Capt. and Mrs. H. S. Truscott, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Knudsen, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rankin, Capt. and Mrs. G. T. Grier, Dr. and Mrs. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Gene, Mr. and Mrs. Kohman, Mrs. Hamilton, Mr. Eric Loe, Thompson, Stewart, Cummings, Strand, Mitchell, Schelmoldring and Dunn, and Capt. F. C. Morrow, Lieut. F. E. McCall, H. Vincent, E. Fountain, A. Horner, Marcelino and Thompson and Messrs. Riddle, Patterson, Munlock, Dye, Malum, and Manace.

Miner Marjorie and Katherine Woods of Hilo were the week-end guests of Mrs. J. M. Lygate.

F. A. Alexander, manager of the McBryde Plantation, is spending a short period in Honolulu.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rankin entertained with an informal dinner last Saturday before the dance in Makaweli. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Eric Knudsen, Albert Horner and Harry Vincent.

Miss Blanche Martin, who has been in Hanalei this year, left last week to be operated on for appendicitis. She was taken ill very suddenly in the latter part of last week.

R. L. Hughes left for a brief stay in Honolulu last Saturday.

Outdoor drills of the various companies in the Fourth Regiment of the National Guard have taken place on several Sunday afternoons recently. The officers and men appear in uniform and the drills have assumed quite a social aspect. Numerous machines are usually present and admiring spectators watch the proceedings with interest. Last Sunday the Lihue Company B was divided in two companies; both companies will remain under the direction of Maj. W. H. Rice, and Capt. W. Morganne will have Company B and Capt. E. W. Carden will direct Company C.

Dr. and Mrs. William T. Dunn are at home in Makaweli, where Doctor Dunn is the plantation physician. Mrs. Dunn was formerly Miss Hazel Eschew of Honolulu.

J. K. Parley of Koloa is spending a few days in Honolulu on business.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kuhlmann of Lihue announced the engagement of their daughter Eleanor to C. G. Kuhlmann recently. The wedding will be held shortly.

Dr. and Mrs. William T. Dunn are at home in Makaweli, where Doctor Dunn is the plantation physician. Mrs. Dunn was formerly Miss Hazel Eschew of Honolulu.

BLIND PIG CASES
BECOME INVOLVED

Nobody Seems To Know What Will Become of German Ship Offenders

That the prosecution of the men in the German ships, charged with selling liquor will be compromised, and the alleged violators of the law will be let off with a reprimand, is the way certain city officials look at the situation. Capt. C. Grzeschot, commander of the interned German gunboat Geier, when asked his opinion regarding the charges preferred against his men by License Inspector Fennell, alleging that beer was sold aboard his ship, said:

"I have no statement to make, and do not care to discuss the matter."

Chairman P. D. Lowrey of the liquor license commission said that the case pending were not regarded by the commission as any different from that of an ordinary citizen charged with the illicit sale of liquor, and the prosecution of the men that have been arrested in connection with the recent raid made against German ships in the hands of the liquor license inspector and the city attorney's office.

That he will abide by any action taken in the matter by the license commission was the statement made by Inspector Fennell yesterday.

According to reliable information the situation in being juggled from one department to another. It was also reported yesterday that a consultation will be held with the German consul, laying the evidence before him, and if the offenders agree to discontinue the illegal sale of liquor, they may not be prosecuted.

The two cases which are now pending in the police court were continued by the request of License Inspector Fennell. Whether he wanted further time to work up the case against these men, or expected that a compromise shortly would be effected is not known at the city attorney's office.

Prosecuting Attorney Chillingworth last night. Unless something unforeseen arises the cases which have been pending in the police court will come up for trial Saturday.

MANY FRIENDS ATTEND
W. B. THOMAS' FUNERAL

With the Rev. Dr. William H. Fry, superintendent of the Methodist missions in Hawaii, and Rev. L. L. Loofbourdon, pastor of the local Methodist Church officiating, funeral services for the late William B. Thomas, whose death occurred on February 29, last, in Los Angeles, California, and whose body was brought to Honolulu in the Great Northern last Monday by the widow and son, were held at two o'clock yesterday afternoon in the church mentioned.

Mrs. W. H. Fry sang beautifully a number of religious hymns. Many friends and acquaintances of the deceased were present at the service and the floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. Interment took place in the Nuuanu cemetery, following the church service.

The pallbearers were Richard H. Trent, E. Faxon Bishop, J. L. Young, F. W. Macfarlane, J. L. Lyon, Charles Lucas, W. L. Gifford and James D. Dole.

DISCHARGED SOLDIER
ATTACKED AND STABBED

John Blake, a discharged colored soldier, was taken to the police emergency hospital last night, suffering from a severe knife wound in his left side.

Blake said that while walking along River street, near Vineyard, he was attacked by several colored soldiers. The first intimation that he had that he was stabbed was the running of blood.

Dr. R. G. Ayer took three stitches in a five-inch wound in the muscular tissue of the thorax, and the man then left for his room, 1233 Fort street.

Blake says the men who attacked him were under the influence of liquor. He knows his assailant by sight, though not by name.

FEDERAL JURY FINDS
M. PERRY INNOCENT

It took the trial jury in the federal court yesterday less than five minutes, after the case had been committed to it for a verdict, to find Marion Perry not guilty of a statutory offense charge on which he was on trial since last Monday.

Marion Perry, who is a well known local long distance swimmer, was charged with having committed a criminal assault on a young Hawaiian girl aboard the steamer Mauna Kea on a trip of this vessel between Hilo and Honolulu the early part of last year.

District Attorney Vaughan prosecuted, while Leon M. Straus appeared for the defense. The district attorney's address to the jury yesterday was both fervid and eloquent. Straus submitted the case without a word of argument.
